MRS. HOOPER'S BODY IS TAKEN FROM THE RIVER

Hair Caught in Cable of O'Neil's
Dredging Outfit Near Gallagher Flats

IS READILY IDENTIFIED;
NOT BADLY DISFIGURED

Inquest Upon Remains Will b
Held this Afternoon at 2 O'clock

The body of Mrs. R. C. Hooper, one of the six victims of Thursday's drowning accident, was taken from the river near Gallagher's Flats yesterday at 3:45 o'clock. The cable of O'Neil's dredging outfit had caught in the hair of the head and held the body. The features of the body were not disfigured to any appreciable extent, and it was readily identified as that of Mrs. Hooper. The remains were removed to Connelly and McKinley's undertaking establishment. The body was discovered by workmen.

A. Whoppy, James A. Whoppy, Frank Schenars were working on the middle of the river channel, the cable attached to O'Neil's dredging outfit. In order to raise the cable from the bed of the river and when the cable came to the surface they were surprised to see fastened to it by the hair of her head the body of Mrs. Hooper.

Caught by Hair.
One of the men at once cried out, and the cry being heard by the men on the shore they ran to the bank thinking that the boat had capsized. The men in the boat, however, showed that a woman's body was on the cable. A hook which was in the boat was at once caught in Mrs. Hooper's hair, and the body was lifted into the boat and taken ashore.

Inspector T. Gray and British Consul, on an on, at once identified the body when brought ashore as that of Mrs. Hooper. The police were notified and also the Marshall-Webb company, Inspector Bryant, acting as chief of police, at once telephoned to the river dredging outfit, and the Marshall-Webb company, who returned the identification.

LLOYD GEORGE NOW

Chairman of Exchequer Refers to Conservative Railing Book from Aunt to Conserve Ministers for Gambling in Stocks

London, July 2.—Chairman Lloyd George, who signed the Marconi deal, has been at a luncheon given to him and Sir Isaac Duffus of the National Liberal Club today. Winston Churchill sat next to the chairman. The more eloquent and humorous section of the Conservative press for having declined to join in "the unctuous famous man hunt." Mr. Lloyd George said he would be glad to do much for the Conservative party. He and Sir Isaac had during a dark and dreary winter been silent while the chairman had been hunted at their heads from every quarter. It had been, he said, the shabbiest chapter in the history of any party. For months every day, cowardly journalist of the Conservative party had been shouting poisonous darts at them, knowing that their hands were tied. He said they were now free to shoot out an arrow.

Cross-Channel Feeling.
The declaration was received with a tumult of cheers and the chairman then proceeded to give a hint of how he would smile if it became necessary. How many, he asked, of those who had started to turn himself and Sir Isaac out of public life would have gone to the divan if it had been a condition of their vote that they show their post-humous? When he heard Mr. Duffus say that these ministers ought to be expelled from office who were guilty of indifference and saw the members of the Conservative party railing back from the Aunt race to pass a solemn vote of censure upon the maintenance of gambling, it gave him an unpleasant "cross-channel" feeling. The chairman's enthusiasm for a current vernacular phrase was received with shouts of laughter by the Liberals, and is characterized by the Conservatives as another instance of his tendency to "lamehouse."

HOMESTEADERS AND CATTLEMEN IN BITTER FEUD

Settlers Drive Wild Cattle Ranging on Their Land Across Border

COMMISSIONER STEVENS MAKES INVESTIGATION

Organization of Pound District Is Advised as Protection to Settlers

The feuds which have been reported from the south country between the cattlemen and homesteaders, which were candidly exaggerated in the newspaper reports, will, according to W. F. Stevens, Live Stock Commissioner for the Province, who has just returned from the south, be put at rest by the organization of a pound district and the cattle running at large will come under the pound laws.

Cattle Are Wild.

It appears that there are between 500 and 600 head of range cattle belonging to the Mustangs. Cattle Company running at large on the range in the townships near the southern boundary, township 1 ranges 29 and 31. The district in filling up with homesteaders, many of whom have not yet been able to fence their land and have been annoyed by the cattle running over their places. They claim that the cattle cut up all the hay that is allowed to mature and they would have to buy hay for their stock in the winter. The range cattle also are very wild and homesteaders on foot on the prairie are in danger of being hurt by a stampede. Much on foot is a strange sight to cattle and on the range and cattle are liable to stampede and have recently cut off a road with a stampede.

U. S. Fence Is Down.

Recently some 200 head of cattle went across the boundary line into Montana and it was alleged that the homesteaders had loaded together and drove them across. There is a double fence along the boundary and Mr. Stevens, who was in the country investigating the matter, found that the fence on the American side was in very poor condition and that they nearly all the way along. The fence on the Canadian side was in good condition, but some of the gates had been left open.

The cattle which went across the border were brought back by Mustang riders and they are now being driven some distance away from the border and as long as the fence holds out where they are, there is not likely to be any more trouble. By the first of August the district will be organized into a pound district and in this way the settlers will be protected from the cattle.

Cattle Not In Form.

Many of the settlers in the district are not satisfied with the country and they claim that they did not know how to go about the formation of a pound district. In the first place, they applied to the Department of the Interior for protection and the Department of Interior referred them to the R. N. W. M. P. who in turn told them that they must apply to the provincial government for a pound district to be formed. The petition applying for a pound district came to the Department of Agriculture in April, but it did not come with the signatures as amended last season. The Department wrote last fall to the effect, but the petition from the department were not answered.

Made Investigation.

According to press reports from the south, the settlers then took the matter into their own hands and had driven the offending cattle across the boundary. On hearing of the trouble the Minister of Agriculture sent the live stock commissioner, W. F. Stevens, into the south to inquire into all the circumstances of the case and to assist them in putting their petition in shape. The petition, in proper form, has been sent in and the pound law will come into force in the district at the beginning of next month, after thirty days' notice.

London, July 2.—Judgment was rendered in the appeal before the Privy Council in the case of the Grand Trunk Railway versus McLaughlin, since deceased, and others. The action was for damages for personal injuries.

His schedule calls for his return August 4. His total time should be kept his schedule will be 25 days, 21 hours, 25 minutes. The record, made in 1911 by Andre Jecker, lasted 59 days, 19 hours, 11 minutes.

REAR ADMIRAL ROBERT E. FLEMING, discoverer of the North Pole, who recently returned from Alaska, has been chosen to start the privilege of accepting the decoration of the Legion of Honor conferred upon him by France. Under the United States law no officer of the government can accept any title, decoration or present from a foreign state without the consent of Congress. When the coveted small and button was conferred upon him in Paris, Admiral Fleming placed the decoration in the hands of the American ambassador, thus pending development—Admiral Fleming's trip abroad was made as a delegate from this country to the International Geographical Congress and the International Polar Commission at Lyons.

g Upon Commerce, Winner of Selling Purse, Thomas
o Produce Money Within the Required Twenty

But the complication, which resulted from this bidding, was the worst feature of the day. "Tommy Burns," the race horse, a very expensive animal, was to be sold for $100,000 by the American agent, Mr. A. Layzell of Calmar. The rules of a selling purse race provide that the winner is sold for the price he claims any horse in the race at the time of the race. As the horse owned by Mr. O. Lowen was glad to let Commero go in order to buy claim to "Tommy Burns," the latter was sold for $100,000, of course would not stake his trainer and owner, and the result was that the man that would mean that he would have to sacrifice his own entry. The result was the selling of the horse for $100,000.
